What We Do

Create Economic Opportunities and Strengthen Communities
We create opportunities through skills training, micro-finance programs, small business development, and access to markets for people to earn income and build long-term economic stability in communities.

Promote Health and Fight Disease
We save lives by promoting basic health care, building water and sanitation systems, educating communities on nutrition and hygiene, and fighting preventable diseases – including malaria, HIV/AIDS, water-borne illness, and acute respiratory infections – that kill millions of people each year.
Alleviate Hunger and Improve Food Supply
We provide resources and training – such as new seeds, better tools, animals, and improved farming methods – to ensure that people have daily access to affordable, nutritious food.

Respond to Disasters and Rebuild Communities
We provide critical assistance when disasters strike – including food, shelter, medicine, and counseling – and support long-term recovery efforts to rebuild communities and restore hope for a stronger future. We equip churches across the U.S. to respond to disasters in their communities.
